

The background of the slide is a high-quality photograph of water. In the upper left, two water droplets are captured in mid-fall, appearing as clear spheres with internal reflections. Below them, a larger droplet has just hit the surface, creating a series of concentric ripples that spread outwards. The water's surface is a deep, vibrant blue, and the overall lighting is soft, giving the scene a clean and serene appearance.

USES OF ELECTROLYZED REDUCED WATER

WHAT IS ELECTROLYZED REDUCED WATER?

- As opposed to tap or bottle water, ERW is water that has been filtered and passed over platinum dipped titanium plates, essentially electrolyzing the water.
- This is how you find water in nature, a stream or a lake. water that's been running along the ground, struck by lightning, moving over boulders and waterfalls. It's alive with energy. We can now replicate that energy from our counter tops with our ionizer machines, making water what it was before passing through water treatment plants and pipes.
